

EXAMINER'S REVIEW OF PROVINCIAL MARKETS

(Calgary, October 29th.)

Cattle—Beef—Calgary was quiet this week, but livened up Wednesday: Choice steers, $4.25 to $4.75, with a top of $4.85 on a load; good, $3.50 to $4; medium, $3 to $3.50; common down to $2. Choice heifers not just as good as $3.25 to $3.60; good, $2.75 to $3.25. Choice cows little better at $2.50 to $3.10; good, $2.50 to $2.75; medium, $2 to $2.50; common, $1.50 to $2; canners down to 60c. Bulls unchanged with choice up to $2; most sales $1.50 to $1.75. Calves weaker, with best veal $3.75 to $4; common, $2 to $3.50. Feeders, Stockers—Priced about steady on steers with choice up to $4, others down to $3.25; choice stockers, $3.75 down to $2.75; stock cows, $1.50 to $2.50.

Beef—Quality lacking in many of the cattle at Edmonton and lower tops; heavy steers, $4 to $4.50; light, $4 to $4.50; good, $3.50 to $4; medium, $2.75 to $3.25; common, $2.25 to $2.75. Choice heifers $3.25 to $3.50; good, $2.75 to $3.25. Choice cows, $2.75 to $3, with a top of $3.25; good, $2.25 to $2.75; medium, $2 to $2.50; common, $1.50 to $2; canners, $1 to $1.40. Calves lower with choice vealer $4 to $4.50; common, $2 to $3. Bulls unchanged, choice, $1.75 to $2; common, $1.25 to $1.50. Feeders, Stockers—Choice, deboned heavily, apparently to $4, good ones, $3.25 to $3.75; common, $2.50 to $3. Stock heifers, $1.50 to $2.75. Stock cows, $1.25 to $2.25.

Hogs—Calgary hogs fairly steady after week end drop to $9; some heavy at $5.50; Tuesday $9; Wednesday $5.50 to $9; today's thick smooths, off cars, $5.75 to $9.

Edmonton hog prices have been steady during the week with prices $5.50 to $5.75, off feed, for the week; smooths; bacon hogs get 10 per cent. premium.

Sheep—Choice lambs at Calgary up to $11; yearlings, $8 to $9; fat ewes around $7; breeding ewes, $5.50 to $6.50. Light rate of sheep at Edmonton and prices firm, with best lambs $11, others down to $8; yearlings, $8 to $9; butcher ewes, $6 to $7; cack sheep, $3 to $6.

Markets showing some fluctuation, but holding up fairly well, greatest weakness being shown in futures. Europe not buying heavily, apparently expecting to buy Argentine wheat at lower price after new year. Weather generally good for threshing, though a little time was lost owing to rain in northern central areas.

Butter—Cream—Cheese—Creamery Butter—Car lot prices a little weaker, with 50c. general quotation; cartons and prints unchanged at 35c. and 40c. Dairy Butter—Receipts very light; Calgary markets paying around 50c. for fancy grade table. Cheese—Unchanged at last advance. Butterfat—No change, basis 32c. specials.

Eggs—Poultry—Eggs—Receipts at Calgary very light, unchanged in price up to 35c. for extras, storage supplies being well cleaned up. Poultry—Dealers advising holding shipments of turkeys to last week of November and first week in December. Chickens cut to 12c.; fowl down to 8c. to 12c.; ducks, 6c. Some turkeys coming, not wanted yet. No. 1, live, No. 2, 17c.; live geese, 12c.; dressed turkeys, 20c. to 25c.

Potatoes—Offers plentiful, Calgary delivery mostly around $17, with range up or down.

down according to grade. Hay—Deliveries slow on limited requirements of dealers; alfalfa for prompt delivery now quoted $12 to $13, but that's over the market.

Hides—All markets reported bad and some dealers inclined to let stocks go at any price; others more optimistic.

Furs—London sales of Hudson's Bay and Lamson furs showed market steady on most lines, but some lower and very few show improvement prices.

OBSCURITY ENGULFING FINANCIAL FAMILY

London, October 22.—The British branch of the great Rothschild family, which has held a dominating position in British finance through nearly three generations because of its founder's stroke of strategy in obtaining the first news of the result of the battle of Waterloo, seems destined to pass into comparative obscurity.

The death of Nathaniel, fourth head of the firm in direct succession, was a surprise in London and the revelation of the inquest that he died by his own hand was a greater shock.

It was a tragedy of the last years of the late Lord Rothschild that neither of his sons, Lionel nor Nathaniel, gave promise of aptitude for carrying on the dynasty so long fortified in its own quaint building in the heart of the city where the writings of books and pamphlets on zoology, Nathaniel was an earnest student of insects.

Apparently the father held Nathaniel as his most promising heir, for in his will he passed over his older son and nominated Nathaniel as his business successor, giving him the bulk of the family fortune.

The fate of N. M. Rothschild and Sons, merchants and bankers, a name before whose lesser magnates for some years trembled, remains to be revealed. Often in the past the firm had come to the rescue of a tottering European government, but the last lineal chief apparently found more interest in a new flea than in securing a nation.

THE SECRET OF TRUE MOTHER LOVE

"My dear," said one woman to another, "I hear your son is going to be married. Your poor heart must be broken."

The mother laughed. "I am not an object of pity," she said. "I am a subject for congratulation."

"What!" cried the first woman. "Do you mean to tell me that you are willing to give up your only child to another woman?"

"Willing and glad," replied the mother. "For I want my son to be happy."

What is a Man's Duty? "Children are ungrateful creatures," said the first woman, bitterly. "I spend my lives toiling and sacrificing for them, and as soon as they are big enough they leave me. I remember when your husband died, we wondered how you would get along. Well, you did, by working your fingers to the bone."

"You went without everything your self, but your boy was always fed and clothed, and by hook or crook you got him through school."

"My son loves me. We are unusually companionable. I am an old and experienced housekeeper. Doubtless I make him as comfortable as he can. But I am not foolish enough to think that my boy is really home with me, or that a mother's love takes the place of a wife's love."

"And so, while he is young and capable of loving and inspiring love, I desire to see him marry. Nothing will out all that is best and strongest in a man as does having a wife and children dependent on him. Nothing spoils a man's ambition so much as desiring to get the best for those he loves. I want my son to marry because I love my husband, and I want to present to some girl the best gift on earth—a good husband."

THE WORLD'S MOST WONDERFUL MINE

One of the little-known wonders of the world is the Morro Velho gold mine, in Brazil.

Almost every day for nearly a hundred years this wonderful mine has been producing gold in such quantities that the fact that, instead of giving out, it has shown signs of becoming, if anything, richer than ever.

The mine was first exploited systematically a few years before Queen Victoria's coronation. Prior to that it was worked for nearly a century by the Brazilian themselves, while there is evidence that it was known to an even older generation.

Two Miles Deep

It was not until about thirty years ago, however, that up-to-date machinery was installed, since which time the mine has owed much of its prosperity and fame to the skill of an English mining engineer, who, in a short time made Morro Velho one of the most completely equipped mines in the world.

Thirty years ago the descent into the mine, which is now nearing the two-mile mark in depth, was made by means of ladders and occupied nearly forty minutes. Today electric lifts take one down in a little more than two minutes.

A wonderful system of air locks is installed at the various levels, the pressure at some of which is so great that a complete change of clothing becomes necessary, ordinary garments being exchanged for thick woolsen jackets and trousers.

Blasting operations take place twice a day, and to be in the mine at the time of one of these occurrences is to undergo an experience which is not easily forgotten.

Imagine yourself standing in an electrically-lighted chamber a mile below the surface of the earth. For beneath your feet, and perhaps half a mile wide of where you are standing, the miners are laying the dynamite charges, in readiness for getting out the ore.

Suddenly a sharp tap, like the sound of a hammer meeting wood, comes to the ear, and following it, a mighty rush of wind that, unless you are prepared for it, sweeps you off your feet.

A minute later comes a low rumbling noise that increases in volume until it roars like thunder, while the whole mine trembles as if shaken in the fury of a great storm.

You are then at liberty to descend to where the miners are sending the ore to the surface to be crushed and subjected to the various processes of obtaining the ounce of gold which is yielded by every ton of ore. The processes include cyaniding and purification by what is known as "roasting."

Every blasting operation means that five hundred pounds worth of gold has been wrested from Mother Earth, the value of the daily output being, roughly, a thousand pounds.

In addition there are various valuable by-products—among them silver, palladium, and arsenic.

SENTENCE SERMONS

A friend of the editor who has just come home after a tour of the world told some very interesting things about his travels. But when he was asked, "What was the most interesting experience you had?" the friend replied, "I met a man over eighty years old who had not lost the enthusiasm of his youth. His prayers were as fervent, his sermons were as appealing, his programme for the world's redemption was just as large and full as if he were just beginning life instead of drawing near the close."

I saw nothing in all my world travels that impressed me like the sight of a soul that had not been made pessimistic by the world's evil or discouraged by its apathy."

Increase in Eggs and Poultry Handled Through Co-operative Marketing Service

A big growth in eggs and poultry handled through the co-operative marketing services of the Alberta Department of Agriculture, is shown in the figures for the six months of the year. To date a total of 398,129 dozen eggs have been handled, compared with 435,000 dozen for the whole of last year. About four carloads of live poultry have already been handled.

REDUCED TAXATION

A vote for Government Control means

General Prosperity and Stability—Balancing the Provincial Budget—Reduced Taxation and Increased Provincial Grants—Provincial-wide Good Roads—Tourists—Revival of Agricultural Exhibitions—Steadily Increasing Land Values—More Land Seekers With Capital—Increased Mixed Farming (The Farm Housewife's Private Budget)—More Public Works and Drainage—The Banishment of the Bootlegger—A Bigger, Better and Happier Alberta.

A FEW FACTS

Last year the Premier of Alberta said the Provincial deficit would be $272,000; at the end of the year it was actually over $1,900,000.

This year he claimed the deficit would be $1,016,000. Preliminary figures show this estimated deficit already exceeded.

Increased taxes have been placed on insurance companies, slot machines and oil leases. What next? The farmer knows now just what the supplementary revenue tax means.

Do the public want more taxes, or do they want the Government to get the millions now going to bootleggers?

Quebec with decreased drunkenness benefited to the extent of $4,500,000. With a general tourist revenue of $100,000,000.

B.C. with less drunkenness benefited over $2,500,000 and an increase of $35,000,000 revenue from tourists.

The answer and cure remain with you.

THE WHEAT POOL

OPENED MONDAY LAST

Two Busy Months of Conferences

After two months of conferences all over three provinces, the Alberta wheat pool, the first provincial co-operative voluntary wheat marketing concern ever to be launched in Canada, is a concrete, tangible, known fact, and not the probability or possibility which it has been for the last few weeks. Inestimably increased interest in Canada's first provincial wheat pool has been created by the seemingly unending secret conferences in Calgary, Edmonton, Regina and Winnipeg. The scene of events once or twice during the last few months changed suddenly and unexpectedly, and many thousands of the 25,000 signatories to the contract pool had almost reached the point where they were not sure of anything.

Arrangements With the Elevators

Elevators throughout the province will receive wheat from signatories to the Alberta wheat pool on and after October 29, and arrangements with Alberta elevator companies in order to make this possible have been completed, Mr. Lunn said. The farmer may haul his wheat to the elevator; it will be taken in promptly, and he will be given a cash advance on all grain delivered, by the Alberta Co-operative Wheat Producers, Limited, which is the corporate name of the Alberta wheat pool.

The facilities of the United Grain Growers and the Alberta Pacific Grain company, of which John I. McFarland is manager, will be at the disposal of the pool under the terms of an agreement which it is understood has been agreed to by both parties. The agreement is along the lines of the agreement between elevator companies and the co-operative wheat board instituted by the government.

All interested consider this arrangement will prove satisfactory both to the pool and to the elevator companies. The pool, since the board began its sessions here last Monday, has been negotiating with the elevator companies of Alberta, many of whose offices are located in Calgary. These companies have agreed to co-operate with the pool in the same manner that the U.G.G. and A.P.G. have done in the past.

Thus elevator facilities, one of the most important factors in the success ful operation of the co-operative venture, are assured.

The Initial Payment

Signatories to the contract will be paid at least 50 cents a bushel, it is learned on high authority, this having been arranged at a conference in Edmonton recently between wheat pool trustees, the government and farmer members of the Alberta legislature.

Number one northern wheat delivered in wagonloads to Alberta elevators yesterday sold for 74 cents a bushel, which is 7.5 percent advance.

An agreement has been reached with the Canadian Bankers' association whereby this will be made possible, and it is understood that the authority that the provincial government may guarantee the bankers protection until the ultimate success of the pool is fully assured.

Chester M. Elliott, formerly manager of the grain commission of the United Grain Growers at Calgary, is manager of the new pool, and D. L. Smith, formerly connected with the Grain Growers Export company at Winnipeg, will be selling agent of the pool, and will trade on the floor of the Winnipeg Grain Exchange.

Two and a Half Months

Two months and 15 days after Aaron Sapro, California lawyer and co-operative market wizard, spoke in a packed hall in Calgary, the pool will be in operation. The board of trustees considers that in the short time at its disposal that it accomplished a big work, and they are satisfied that they have succeeded to the best of their ability in face of many obstacles, other than shortness of time. It was announced last spring by H. W. Wood, a shareholder that in the short time at its disposal that it accomplished a big work, and they are satisfied that they have succeeded to the best of their ability in face of many obstacles, other than shortness of time. It was announced last spring by H. W. Wood, a shareholder that in the short time at its disposal that it accomplished a big work, and they are satisfied that they have succeeded to the best of their ability in face of many obstacles, other than shortness of time.

A short time later Premier Herbert Greenfield announced that after many conferences he and the premiers of Manitoba and Saskatchewan had come to the conclusion that a compulsory wheat board for this year would be impracticable and that voluntary pool was impracticable. However, agitation for a pool grew and farmers in different sections of the province took action as individual groups to form pools. An organization known as the Southern Alberta Producers' Association, Limited, was formed at a meeting in Macleod. Then Sapro was brought to Alberta and immediately following his departure for Saskatchewan a provisional committee of seventeen was formed as a preliminary group to form a pool. This later resolved itself into a provisional committee of seven farmers, headed by H. W. Wood, which then held a series of conferences lasting two months and held all over three provinces.

AN OPINION ON GOVERNMENT CONTROL IN B.C.

The Stettin Independent published the following letter from J. Ball, manager of the Vernon News, B. C. in reply to an enquiry as to how he thought government control was working out in that province. Mr. Ball is President of the B. C. Press Association, and is a well-known and fair-minded opinion of the B. C. method of dealing with the liquor question. The following is the letter: C. L. Willis, Esq., Independent, Stettin, Alberta.

Dear Sir:—

I received your letter of recent date re Government Control in British Columbia, on which subject you wish me to express an opinion. Speaking personally, it does not make much difference to me whether there is Prohibition or not, for I do not drink now, nor did I do so before the general sale was prohibited and then curtailed.

Looking at the matter in a general way, however, I feel that the first both as to manner and to whom, will never again be tolerated, and I would oppose in every way its introduction, and it is understood that it is necessary to anyone, and no one would suffer if the manufacture were discontinued entirely. But it can never be introduced. Certain people will have liquor, and seem determined to get it, and will move heaven and earth to get something with a "kick" in it.

In the old days, when liquor was freely dispensed, hotelmen with a good bar made money, and made lots of it. In fact many of them did not pay much attention to the balance of the house, and instead of considering the bar an adjunct, really merely tolerated the general house as a necessary attachment to enable them to have a bar. In British Columbia, since the Government operated the distributing houses, there is a certain restriction in the sale. It calls for permits; such permits are limited, and are supposed to represent a "moderation" in its use. Now those who really feel they must have it, are able to buy and get the real thing in sealed containers. Besides this whatever profits are made in the sale of liquor are not controlled by a pool, but are divided among the channels of distribution.

A short time later Premier Herbert Greenfield announced that after many conferences he and the premiers of Manitoba and Saskatchewan had come to the conclusion that a compulsory wheat board for this year would be impracticable and that voluntary pool was impracticable. However, agitation for a pool grew and farmers in different sections of the province took action as individual groups to form pools. An organization known as the Southern Alberta Producers' Association, Limited, was formed at a meeting in Macleod. Then Sapro was brought to Alberta and immediately following his departure for Saskatchewan a provisional committee of seventeen was formed as a preliminary group to form a pool. This later resolved itself into a provisional committee of seven farmers, headed by H. W. Wood, which then held a series of conferences lasting two months and held all over three provinces.

As a restrictive measure I feel that it works satisfactorily. The trouble to which people have to go to get the liquor; the fact that a record is kept of the amounts they buy; the knowledge that if they are caught drinking in public places they may have their license limited; the fact that licensees are issued only to those who come within the provisions of the Act—all these things tend to limit the amount bought and consumed, and I feel sure that it may be considered among the sanest measures for the curbing of the use of liquor which could be devised and which can be carried out.

As I stated before, prohibition of importation and sale entirely would be ideal, and would be desirable, if it could be carried out. But as long as human nature is constituted as it is, and as long as people are human, it is necessary to try to deal sanely with matters of this kind, and have a gradual evolution rather than try to accomplish too much at one time. By getting people away from the free use; by eliminating it from use at public functions; by having our boys grow up without the constant temptation before them; by making it a little more difficult to get at all; in fact, by weaning people away from the general use of it by these restrictive measures, will eventually impress people with the folly of using the stuff at all except as medicine, and I would not be surprised to see the day, not many years hence, when the Governments will find it necessary to stop the manufacture, and to deal with the results desired, and to deal most sanely with conditions as they exist at the present time.

Yours very truly,

LOUIS J. BALL.

Insist on the genuine.

GILLETT'S 100% PURE FLAKE LYE

It works satisfactorily. The trouble to which people have to go to get the liquor; the fact that a record is kept of the amounts they buy; the knowledge that if they are caught drinking in public places they may have their license limited; the fact that licensees are issued only to those who come within the provisions of the Act—all these things tend to limit the amount bought and consumed, and I feel sure that it may be considered among the sanest measures for the curbing of the use of liquor which could be devised and which can be carried out.

I believe the British Columbia system is the best yet devised to accomplish the results desired, and to deal most sanely with conditions as they exist at the present time.

SCIENTIST BELIEVES CENTRE OF EARTH MASS OF SOLID GOLD

"The heart of the earth," says a new theory, "is a heart of gold." At the very centre of the globe there may be millions of tons of gold and silver and platinum and the other heavy metals.

This is not mere fantastic speculation, but a deduction from the most critical investigation ever made in the chemistry of the earth's crust—an investigation conducted by the acknowledged world authority on this subject, Dr. Henry S. Washington, of the Carnegie Institution of Washington, D. C.

Dr. Washington, studying over 5,000 trustworthy chemical analyses of the crust of the earth, found that the elements common in the crust are exclusively those of lighter weight. The heavier elements occur only in the most minute proportions. Gold, for instance, composes less than one-millionth of the per cent. of the earth's crust.

Yet Dr. Washington thinks it is improbable that these heavier elements are always lacking. Then there is Mother Earth's missing quota of gold, platinum and other heavy elements? Have they hidden themselves away out of reach?

Dr. Washington believes that they have. He thinks that the earth was once molten. While it was in this condition, a element rose to the surface; the heavier ones sank. He thinks that millions of tons of the heavier elements are inside the earth now.

At the very centre he would expect to find a core of the heaviest elements—such as platinum, gold, antimony and osmium, the latter the heaviest known substance, familiar to all in that natural alloy, "Inam," used for the tips of gold pens. Outside this sphere of precious metals there is, perhaps, a zone of those elements that are little less heavy—copper, silver and lead. If there is a zone of iron, as Dr. Washington thinks there is, it presumably comes next. Clear outside, on top of all the metallic zones, is the surface layer of the lightest elements—the slag layer, the rocky crust on which we live.

If this is true, what do the veins of gold, silver and copper that are mined in the earth's crust come from? The generally accepted scientific answer is that they have been brought upward by seepages of hot mineral water from the depths of the earth.

More than 50 years ago the great English physicist, Lord Kelvin, maintained that an earth consisting of a thin solid crust surrounding a liquid ball of molten metal would be unstable; that the tidal pull of the sun and the moon, it is this pull of the heavenly bodies, would make the liquid ball bulge and the bulge would be just as strong, or stronger, on the land. Why, then, are there not tidal waves in the solid ground? The answer is in the sea? Obviously, just because it is solid—because the land is firm and rigid and does not flow like the water does.

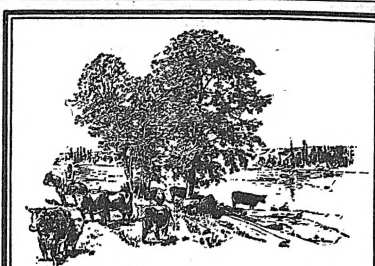

Lord Kelvin figured out in tons the amount of the pull of the sun and the moon. They were stupendous; many times larger than any possible resistance of anything solid on the earth. They were supposed to constitute the only solid part of the globe. If we could try to live on a thin, rocky crust floating on a sea of liquid lava, we should not last one day. Inside our hours the solid ground would smash under our feet. Twice each day a vast wave of molten rock hundreds of feet high would roll round inside the shell of the earth, bursting through it and overwhelming every vestige of anything solid.

There actually does exist, it is true, in the land as well as in the ocean, a tide, but it is a few inches high instead of hundreds of feet. It is the tide of tidal rise and fall that would happen in a very rigid solid—like a ball of molten metal. We may be a little sure, then, that the earth as a whole is a huge solid ball, and that the view Prof. Hobbie has lately brought out in his book, "Earth Evolution and its Facial Expression," though he prefers the word "solid" to the word "solid," for rigidity is only one of the properties of solids. Under the tremendous pressure and temperatures, inside the earth, it is possible that the properties of matter are not the same as we know them to be on the surface. Things may be "rigid" and still lack some other property of "solidity." Prof. Hobbie explains the origin of such a rigid earth among the blazing, scorching stars of space by reference to a new theory of how the earth was formed—the so-called "planetesimal hypothesis."

This hypothesis begins by imagining the sun as a single star, a little larger and hotter probably than it is now. There were no planets whirling around it then. Along came another star. It happened to pass so close to the sun that the gravitational attraction between the two bodies pulled out a lot of the matter from the sun.

These enormous pulled-out "drops" of matter began to revolve about the sun. In time, as they collided with one another, sticking together, great lumps, they gathered into great lumps. These lumps are the planets we know today—Venus, Mars and the others, also the earth.

LIQUOR REFERENDUM

NOTICE TO VOTERS

Instructions to Voters as to Method of Marking the Preferential Ballot to be used in the Liquor Referendum in Alberta on Monday, November 5th, 1923.

Issued Under the Authority of the Government of Alberta

THE BALLOT

a Prohibition---

Meaning thereby, a continuance and development of the present Liquor Legislation; that is, meaning the Abolition of the Sale of all Liquors excepting for strictly Medicinal, Sacramental, Manufacturing and Scientific Purposes.

b Licensed Sale of Beer---

Meaning thereby, the Sale of Beer in Licensed Hotels and other Premises, as provided in the proposed Temperance Act.

c Government Sale of Beer---

Meaning thereby, the Sale of Beer by or through Government Vendors for consumption in Private Residences under Government Control and Regulation—other Liquors to be sold through Doctor's Prescription for Medicinal Purposes.

d Government Sale of All Liquors---

Meaning thereby, the Sale of all Liquors by or through Government Vendors. Beer to be consumed on Licensed Premises and in Private Residences. Wines and Spirits to be purchased in limited quantities under permit issued by the Government, under Government Control and Regulations.

INSTRUCTIONS TO VOTERS

The Voter MUST NOT use the X mark. He should mark the figure 1 opposite the question he wishes to become law. He should then mark the figure 2 opposite the question he would select as second choice, the figure 3 opposite his third choice, the figure 4 opposite his fourth choice. He must make no other mark on the ballot. The voter may "plump" for one question alone, using the figure 1, without spoiling his ballot, or he may vote for only two or only three choices.

Voters are urged, however, to vote the full extent of their four choices. There is always the possibility that the question of his first choice will not carry. In that case he should have a second choice, and a third choice and a fourth choice. Only by marking the full number of choices does the voter obtain the full benefit of the preferential ballot, and the government obtain a complete expression of the opinion of the people.

A LONG JOURNEY

Tony was standing in the road, crying. A kind old lady came up, and asked what was the matter. "I've lost five cents," sobbed Tony. "Well, never mind, my dear," said the old lady. "Five cents does not go far these days." "But mine has," said Tony. "It's gone all the way down a drain."

THE PLEBISCITE

Before our next issue goes to press the result of the vote on the liquor problem will be known. The vote has been put on at very great expense, and every real citizen will join with us in our hope that the vote will be so general and representative, that there will be left no doubt as to what the wishes of the majority of the people are. There has been no satisfactory vote on the liquor question in this Province, and there is very grave fear that through the operation of the system of voting to be used, the government will still be in the dark as to what the people want.

We have had prohibitionists, or we should more correctly say, supporters of Clause "A" on the ballot, advocates that voters should plump for that clause and vote for no other. We have also had supporters of Clause "D" make the same plea. We think these people do not understand the system under which they are to place their votes. In another column will be found a complete explanation of the preferential ballot to be used, and we will not go deeply into it here. But we do think that it is the duty of every person who goes to the polls to vote the whole ticket in order of their preference. Surely any sane man who has the welfare of the Province at heart can say whether he prefers Clause "B" to Clause "A" or Clause "D" to Clause "C." It has been said to us by the leading Clause "A" worker in the city that the government made a mess of the vote and the ballot, and they are asking us to vote the whole ticket so that their mistakes will not be apparent. He may be right, for governments have done such things before, but we cannot see what difference it can make to the government.

THE NEW CITY ACT

The Alberta Government have framed and submitted to a meeting of the city representatives a draft of a new City Act. We have unfortunately been unable to see a copy of the proposed Act. But from what the daily papers of the province outline as the basic and essential provisions of the Act, we are unable to give it support or commendation. As the Albertan quite properly says, the person who drafted the bill wanted to do too much. He apparently thought that no one in the city knew what was good for them, and it was his duty to say in the Act what day, hour and minute Council should meet. The Act also provides for a civil service commission to make appointments and dismissals without liability to any person.

There are of course good points in the Act, and in the proposed charter attached thereto, but the freakish ideas of the drafters of the Act will no doubt prevent the adoption of the Act by any of the cities.

FARM AND CITY BOYS

It is said that a large percentage of prize-winners in colleges come from farms, and that country boys make remarkable headway in commerce, the professions and politics. Commenting on this statement, The Manitoba Free Press says:

"There is no intrinsic superiority of the rural world over the urban. If rural conditions offer more for the peasant boy than urban life, the young should be patient to all who can look a little below the surface. Some of the reasons offered by way of explanation of the country boy's success are that he has learned to do things; all kinds of things, some pleasant and some disagreeable. He learns for himself, not to do them cheerfully. His chores come night and morning, rain or shine, mud or dust. His sense of duty is well disciplined. When he comes into contact with city life he is not likely to ask for favors. He knows how to be his own servant and solve his own problems. His physical backbone is developed, and in many cases where his ambition to move onward is strong his moral backbone is likewise developed. That is why the country boy wins."

This is correct so far as it goes, but it does not go far enough.

A famous prelate once said if he had a boy under his control for the first few years of his life, others might have him the rest of his life, but they could not change him.

The boy on the farm is under his parents' control much more than in the town, and his evenings are spent quietly under his parents' guiding care. His evenings are spent improving his mind; he is tired and goes to bed early, and sleeps well, and grows strong in mind and body.

That is why the country boy wins.

UNJUST LAW

In a case recently before the Supreme court of the Province there came to light a most unjust standing of the law as to the liability of a husband for a tort committed by his wife.

Every person has certain rights of person and property, part arising out of contract and part out of law and custom. Probably the most important of the latter is the right of enjoyment of one's own property but it is also most important that one should have a right of action for damages against anyone who interferes with his freedom of person or who assaults him or slanders him. Such is the case, and we will be agreed with by all when we say that that is a commendable law.

If I am slandered by Mr. X and am damaged thereby, I have the right to sue him and to recover damages from him to heal my lacerated feelings. But if I cannot sue Mr. X, who may have been in Europe when the tort was committed.

If I am slandered by Mrs. X I have the right to sue her for damages and also the right to sue poor Mr. X, who may have been in Europe when the tort was committed.

The above three illustrations will explain the state of the law. By a 1922 statute women were given all the rights of men with regard to holding and handling real and personal property and of contracting or suing, and there is no difference after her marriage. But by the same statute the right was taken away from a husband of suing in respect of a tort done to his wife. But the husband was left saddled with a liability for any tort committed by his wife.

The law was well set out recently by the Honorable Mr. Justice Tweedie in the case of Quinn vs. Beales et al. He there points out that although he felt that it was an unjustifiable hardship to impose on the husband, he could do nothing else unless the law was altered by the legislature or the interpretation of it changed by the appeal court.

DOING MORE BUSINESS

(Edmonton Bulletin)

During August, Canadians brought in foreign goods for consumption valued at more than 75 million dollars, against 67 millions in August of last year, and 65 millions in the corresponding month two years ago. Exports of Canadian products during August amounted to 89 millions, against 73 millions in August a year ago and 61 millions in August two years back. For the twelve months ending with August the total value of Canadian exports amounted to $1,091,937,274, being 119 millions more than the imports for consumption, and 220 millions more than the exports for the preceding year. The evidence is that trade with the outer world is growing in a healthy if not a spectacular way, and that our sales abroad are keeping well ahead of our purchases.

NO FEAR OF OVERPRODUCTION IN DAIRYING

Recently a great deal of attention has been directed to dairying in the United States and Canada, due to the fact that the World's Dairying Congress was held at Washington, followed by the National Dairy Show at Syracuse. At the Congress most of the European countries were represented, while Canada had a strong delegation of officials and producers.

To Prof. H. H. Dean of the Ontario Agricultural College was accorded the honor of giving the opening address, a duty which he ably fulfilled. He emphasized the fact that dairymen follow the dairy cow and that dairymen make for stability in farming. Milk and its products are receiving a great deal of attention because of their food value, some thing that has long been recognized in a general way but now made clear by experiments and by a study of chemical contents. Using this as an argument, various dairy organizations have been conducting a campaign to increase the demand for milk. A certain amount is consumed in every household, though in many cases the cities it is only a pint to a quart of the tea or coffee. An increase of a hundred percent in the sales of milk should be easily possible, which would bring good money back to the producer.

Demand for milk is increasing, but it is pretty much a fixed quantity, so that expansion in markets must be looked for abroad. Cheeses used only in limited quantities, and here an opportunity offers itself for attracting new customers among our own population. If it is any reason for entering the dairy business through fear of overproduction, they may assure themselves that the limit has not nearly been reached in supply either of our own population or of other countries.

FAST WORK, BUT NOT FASTS ENOUGH

Edmonton Bulletin: Ft. William made a record for the season on Saturday, when almost 5,000,000 bushels of wheat were shipped. The rate of movement could be maintained, which is not likely, it would take 164 days to ship the 500,000,000 bushels which the prairie provinces have for export. The latest stay over a third of the time the weather will be as forbidding as can be looked for. The conclusion is obvious. The eastern route cannot get out even the bulk of the crop before freeze up. Alberta's one chance to ship its wheat before New Year's is to ship it west.

EDMONTON NOTES

It was a great pleasure to hear the boys of the Walter Chalmers school. The solo work was particularly brilliant, but we understand that many of the boys were suffering from colds. It is a pity that apart from the work of the teachers in the schools the boys of the city get no instruction in singing. Some years ago Canon Hinchcliffe, then rector of St. Luke's Church, got several boys in his choir, and in a short time they were a very pleasing addition to that body. We should like to see some steps taken to have the boys of the city who so desire, give a chance to sing in a regularly organized body.

It is reported that in the late Gazette notices of incorporations in Ottawa appears notice of the registration of the Scottish Immigrant Aid Society with head office at Red Deer.

We have been unable to find who are the persons back of and interested in the company, or whether the company is a profit bearing organization. We think it is, in company form, the organization that brought out the Hebrideans. Incidentally, we have been looking for the officers of this organization since spring without any more success than in meeting our effort to locate the alleged head office. Incidentally, the organization has been indebted to us since that time, and our accounts are in arrears. Until the company is prepared to come out in the open, advertise its purposes and aims, and meet its obligations, it is far from a sure asset to the district.

The Albertan states that in past years the government has done all it possibly could to enforce the liquor act, but that it "carries it all in future do even more."

Secretary-treasurer Flood, of the Municipal District of Rural, received from the Municipal District of Rural, Wednesday a cheque for $35,776.00, the amount deducted from hall claims and paid on account of the tax to the municipality.—Vulcan Advocate.

HOW LIQUOR BALLOTS WILL BE HANDLED ON 2ND AND 3RD COUNTS

If Neither "A" Nor "D" Get Majority on First Count, Subsequent Counts Will Be Held Out at Edmonton—Ballots Placed in Piles and Glance With the Lowest Number of First Choices

Preference on All Four Choices.

In the event of neither Clause "D" government control of liquor, nor Clause "A" prohibition, receiving a majority on the first count of ballots in the liquor plebiscite on November 5, next, the second and subsequent counts will be carried out at Edmonton, where all the ballots will be sent.

Just how these other counts will be conducted is lucidly described in a document prepared and sent out by John D. Hunt, law clerk of the executive council, who has charge of all the election machinery. It should be noted that the method is quite different from the complicated count as used in the Calgary city election.

Incidentally, in another official document, the government urges all voters to "plump" for their choices on all propositions, as follows:

"As is well known, there are four questions on the ballot paper. The voters must not use the X mark, but should place the figure 1 opposite their first choice, the figure 2 opposite their second choice, the figure 3 opposite their third choice and so on. If voters are entitled to 'plump' for one question or to vote less than the full number of questions, they should so indicate. Only in this way can the government obtain a full expression of opinion.

In dealing with the other three ballots, and the government obtains a full expression of opinion.

How is the result of the election ascertained under the single, transferable preferential vote method?

First Count is Made Locally

At the close of the poll on election day, each deputy returning officer sorts the valid ballots and makes a statement of the number of first choice votes cast for each of the four propositions. If there are more than one first choice vote cast for each proposition, there are or are not any other choices marked on the ballots, and sends the statement to the clerk of the executive council.

The clerk of the executive council makes a statement from the statements of the deputy returning officers of the number of first choice votes cast for each proposition, and places all the question in a separate pile, without reference to any other choice on the ballots.

Under the single transferable preferential vote method, the number of first choice votes cast for each proposition is not declared carried unless it is the highest number of first choice votes cast.

How is the result determined when a question is carried? The clerk of the executive council makes a statement from the statements of the deputy returning officers and the number of first choice votes cast for each proposition, and places all the question in a separate pile, without reference to any other choice on the ballots.

He opens the envelopes containing the ballots, checks the statements of the deputy returning officers and the number of first choice votes cast for each proposition, and places all the question in a separate pile, without reference to any other choice on the ballots.

If there is no second choice on some of the ballots, they are put aside and not counted, and the voters who marked 1 only for the defeated question lose their votes. If any of the three or more choices are marked on more than half the total number of ballots in the three piles, the question represented by it is declared carried. But if none of the three piles contains more than half of the total number of ballots, then in the three piles, the pile containing the lowest number of ballots is declared defeated, and each ballot in that pile is placed in the pile in the one of the two remaining piles indicated by the next choice on the questions still undecided.

If there is no next choice (2 or 3, as the case may be) on some of these ballots they are put aside and not counted and the voters who did not mark their preference lose their votes.

The question represented by the one of the two piles now having the highest number of ballots is declared carried.

The voter has but one vote. It is only in the event of his first choice being defeated and the balance in the pile distributed to the other piles that his second choice is counted, and only the voters in first and second choices being declared defeated that his third choice is counted, and so on.

Choices Never Counted

In what cases are second choices never counted?

The second choices on original ballots cast for the winning question are not taken into consideration as are the second choices on the original ballots cast for the question that is beaten in the final count. The second choices are counted as the first choices are counted. Suppose, for example, that the question "A" is carried, and the question "B" is defeated, and the question "C" is carried, and the question "D" is defeated, and the question "E" is carried, and the question "F" is defeated, and the question "G" is carried, and the question "H" is defeated, and the question "I" is carried, and the question "J" is defeated, and the question "K" is carried, and the question "L" is defeated, and the question "M" is carried, and the question "N" is defeated, and the question "O" is carried, and the question "P" is defeated, and the question "Q" is carried, and the question "R" is defeated, and the question "S" is carried, and the question "T" is defeated, and the question "U" is carried, and the question "V" is defeated, and the question "W" is carried, and the question "X" is defeated, and the question "Y" is carried, and the question "Z" is defeated, and the question "A" is carried, and the question "B" is defeated, and the question "C" is carried, and the question "D" is defeated, and the question "E" is carried, and the question "F" is defeated, and the question "G" is carried, and the question "H" is defeated, and the question "I" is carried, and the question "J" is defeated, and the question "K" is carried, and the question "L" is defeated, and the question "M" is carried, and the question "N" is defeated, and the question "O" is carried, and the GOVERNMENT HOUSE EDMONTON

The action of the Alberta Division of the Red Cross Society in soliciting the people to co-operate in giving donations of wheat or cash to assist in relieving the suffering caused by the recent stupendous disaster in Japan, meets with a hearty endorsement, and I am sure will find its way to the Provincial Press to bring the matter to the attention of their readers. By a generous response we shall comply with article 25 of the Covenant of the League of Nations and carry out one of the chief purposes for which the Red Cross Society was incorporated, namely, to rally to the relief of suffering humanity.

Sincerely yours,
R. G. BRETT,
Lieutenant-Governor.

EXTENT TO WHICH GERMANY HAS PAID

The extent to which Germany, in spite of her twisting and turning, has been forced to comply with the terms of peace, is a matter about which the public would like the fullest information. Put in nutshell form, it may be stated thus:

Merchant Ships—Turned over to allies 430,000 tons of shipping, leaving herself with only 419,000 tons. She is obliged to build 200,000 tons for the allies every year.

Warships—Turned over to allies almost her entire battle fleet, which was later sunk at Scapa Flow. Retained personnel of her navy to 15,000 men.

Military Equipment—Turned over to allies 32,889 guns, 11,589 machine-guns, 89,962 machine-guns, 4,504,285 rifles, 5,604,834 sub-machine-guns, 14,214 airplanes and aeroplanes.

Army—Abolished universal service and reduced army to 1,000,000 with meagre equipment. France claims that Germany still manages to keep up 2,000,000 men, supplied with 12,500 guns, but this probably is an exaggeration and still leaves Germany helpless before France's military might.

Railways—Turned over 5,000 engines (and 150,000 wagons) and all the state railways.

Alms—Lorraine with compensation. The Germans paid 60 million dollars for the railways after the war of 1870.

Rivers—Elbe, Rhine, Meuse and Danube rivers internationalized.

Money Payments—Obliged to allies for cost of occupation, $1,200,000,000; for reparations, $300,000,000 with much coal, etc., making total payments of upwards of $4,000,000,000.

Germany lost one-third of her wealth in the war and the peace terms deprived her of 12 percent of her area, 10 percent of her population, 25 percent of her manufactures, three-fourths of her iron ore, two-thirds of her zinc ore, one-sixth of her farming lands and all her colonies. She was obligated to pay 26 percent of the value of her exports every year. Her foreign trade has fallen to 10 percent, and her bank deposits in gold marks from 9 billion dollars to the vanishing point.

Another class which might well be mentioned in this connection is the class of the more fortunate, consisting of those who are now raising cattle and sheep in the fall. In many of our northern districts carloads of this kind of cattle and sheep are being shipped out together. It would be to the decided advantage of all concerned if these could continue in the spring on the combination as fat cattle. Of course the question of credit enters into this problem and many men are forced to liquidate in the fall notwithstanding that their own judgment would indicate a different policy. It would be a far sighted policy on the part of creditors in such cases, where the farmer has sufficient credit to carry over until the spring. Then it would appear to the writer that a different opportunity offers for the development of a specialized winter feeding industry in proximity to the stock yards at St. Boniface and the terminal elevators and large flour mills. A man located close enough to the stock yards to buy when heavy rains are on and sell in times of shortage, using elevator and stock yards for fattening and growing plenty of rough feed on the rich soil of Eastern Manitoba, could build up a profitable business if good feeding methods and business sagacity were used.

NOVEMBER ROD AND GUN

"The Great Western Stampede" by C. E. Gordon is a vivid story of the time when Calgary took on the appearance of old frontier days, is only one of the many interesting articles in the November issue of Rod and Gun in Canada. Those who are interested in hunting will enjoy the good moon hunting story by A. A. Merrill "Bad Makes Good," the account of the perilous adventure on the lonely Gannet Rock, "Duck Hunting on the Gannet Rock" by Bonnycastle Dale, and the thrilling capture of "My Nineteenth Black Bear," by Theodore J. Stocks, who has hunted in the western mountains for fifteen years. A description of the strange island, "Bare Island," by C. H. Gibbons is also of particular interest. The November issue contains a dozen good stories and articles for the sportsman and while all the regular departments, "Guns and Ammunition," "Along the Trail," "Outdoor Talk," "Fishing Notes" and "Kennel" are full of interest and information. F. V. Williams, J. W. Wilson, and Martin Hunter, well known to readers of Rod and Gun in Canada, have all contributed good articles which will be enjoyed. From cover to cover, this issue is packed with interest for everyone keen on any phase of hunting and fishing or outdoor life.
